II. General information on data processing

1. Scope of personal data processing

As a matter of principle, we only process personal data of our users to the extent that is necessary in order to supply a functional website. We only process the data of our users in a way that is permitted by legal regulations - getting prior consent by the user is not possible due to the nature of the data captured by us.

2. Legal basis for personal data processing

Article 6 (1) c) of the EU GDPR is the legal basis for the processing of personal data for compliance with a legal obligation to which our company is subject.

Whenever processing is necessary for the purposes of legitimate interests pursued by our company or by a third party, except where such interests are overridden by the interests or fundamental rights and freedoms of the data subject which require protection of personal data, the legal basis is Article 6 (1) f) of the EU GDPR.

3. Deletion of data and duration of storage

Personal data of the person concerned will be deleted or locked as soon as the original purpose for storage is no longer applicable. Storage can be longer if this is mandated by European or German legislation via regulations, laws or other legal obligations that our company is subject to. Data will also be locked or deleted at the end of a data retention period as mandated by any of the above legal norms.

III. Supply of the website and creation of log files

4. Description and scope of data processing

Every time when our website is called up, our system automatically captures data and information from the system of the calling computer. The following data are captured:

- (1) Informations on the type of the browser and its version
- (2) The operating system of the user
- (3) The IP address of the user
- (4) Date and time of the access

5. Legal basis for data processing

Legal basis for the temporary storage of the data and the log files is Article 6 GDPR (1) f) of the EU GDPR.

6. Purpose of data processing

The temporary storage of the IP address by the system is necessary to enable the display of the website on the computer of the user. For this purpose, the IP address of the user must be stored for the duration of the session.

Logfiles are stored in order to ensure the proper functioning of the website. Furthermore, the data are used in order to optimize the website and to ensure the security of our IT systems. Data are not analyzed for marketing purposes.

The above also describes our legitimate interests of data processing according to Article 6 (1) f) of the EU GDPR.

7. Duration of storage

The data are deleted as soon as they are no longer needed for the purpose that they were originally captured for. For data solely captured for the purpose of website access, this is the case whenever the corresponding session has ended.

Data captured in log files are deleted no later than 14 days after their original storage.

8. Right to object and right to erasure

Capture of data needed for the display of the website and the storage of data in log files is mandatory in order to offer the website service. Consequently, there is no right to object by the user.

IV. Usage of cookies

Our website does not use cookies.

V. Contact vial e-mail

1. Description and scope of data processing

Our website does not offer a contact form but the user may contact us via the published e-mail address. In this case, the personal data of the user, as transferred to us via e-mail, will be stored.

There will be no transfer of data to third parties. The data will be processed exclusively for the handling of the conversation.

2. Legal basis for data processing

Article 6 (1) f) of the EU GDPR is the legal basis for the processing of personal data which are transferred to us via e-mail. In case that the contact via e-mail aims at concluding a contract, Article 6 (1) b) of the EU GDPR is an additional legal basis.

3. Purpose of data processing

Personal data from an email which was sent to contact us will only be processed in order to follow-up on the contact request (purpose of legitimate interest).

4. Duration of storage

The data are deleted as soon as they are no longer needed for the purpose that they were originally captured for. For personal data sent via email, this is the case whenever the corresponding conversation with the user has ended. The conversation has ended when it is clear from the circumstances that the corresponding issue has been finally resolved.

Those data which are stored in addition as part of the sending procedure will be deleted after 14 days, at the latest.

5. Right to object and right to erase

At any time, the user has the right to object to the processing of personal data. In case that the user contacts us via e-mail, he/she can object to the storage of his/her personal data at any time.

In this case, the conversation must be stopped and all personal data which have been stored in the context of the contact, will be deleted.

VI. What rights can you exercise?

You have legal rights available to you with regard to data access, rectification, erasure, restriction of processing and objection to processing, as well as the right to data portability, amongst others. In addition, you can withdraw any consent you may have given to data processing at any time, and have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority.

The following is a detailed list of your rights even though some of these may not be applicable to our current processing of personal data.

Right to object: You have the right to file an objection at any time to any processing of your personal data pursuant to Article 6 (1) f) of the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).

Please inform us about any objection - please use the contact details as provided on our website.

Right of access: You can request to receive clear and transparent access to information regarding the processing of your personal data.

You have the right to demand confirmation as to whether we process your personal data. If this is the case you are entitled to receive information about this personal data. Please use the contact details as provided on our website to request this information.

You also have a right to access the following information:

- The reasons for the data processing
- The categories of personal data that are processed
- The recipients or categories of recipients who have had or will have access to the personal data, particularly in the case of recipients in third countries and international organizations
- If possible the planned period of time that the personal data will be saved for, or if this isn't possible then the criteria used to determine this time period
- The existence of a right to rectification or erasure of your personal data and/or the right to restriction of processing by the controller, or a right to object to this processing
- The existence of a right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority
- All available information about the origin of the personal data if the data was not obtained from the person in question
- The existence of automated decision-making including profiling pursuant to Article 22 (1) and (4) of the EU GDPR and - at least in some cases - insightful information about the logic involved plus the scope and aims of the repercussions of this kind of processing for the person affected

Right to rectification: You have the right to demand that we correct any of your personal data that is incorrect and complete any personal data that is incomplete.

You have the right to demand that we correct any incorrect personal data concerning you with immediate effect. Taking the purposes of processing into account, you have the right to demand the completion of any incomplete personal data - including by means of a supplementary explanation.

Right to erasure: In certain cases, we are obliged to delete your personal data once you have requested this.

You are entitled to demand that we delete your personal data without delay if one of the following applies: The personal data is no longer required for the purposes for which it was collected or processed in some other way. You withdraw your consent that the processing was based on pursuant to Article 6 (1) a) or Article 9 (2) a) of the EU GDPR, and there are now no valid legal grounds for processing. You submit an objection to the processing of your data pursuant to Article 21 (1) of the EU GDPR and there are no overriding justifiable grounds for the processing, or you submit an objection to the processing of your data pursuant to Article 21 (2) of the EU GDPR. The personal data was processed unlawfully. The deletion of the personal data is required to fulfill a legal obligation in accordance with EU law or the law of individual member states. The personal data was recorded in relation to the offer of information society services directly to a child, pursuant to Article 8 (1) of the EU GDPR. Once you have made your request we are obliged to delete the data with immediate effect. The lawfulness of the data processing for the period between the consent and the withdrawal of this consent shall remain unaffected.

Right to restriction of processing: In certain cases you can demand that restrictions be placed on the processing of your personal data.

You are entitled to demand a restriction to the processing of your personal data in cases where you dispute the correctness of the personal data, for a period of time that allows the controller to review the correctness of that personal data. If the processing is unlawful and you reject the erasure of the personal data in favor of demanding a restriction to the use of the personal data we will fulfill this request. Processing will also be restricted if we no longer require your personal data for the purposes of processing but do require it for the establishment, exercise or defense of legal claims. Or if you have objected to processing pursuant to Article 21 (1) of the EU GDPR, for as long as is not yet ascertained whether the justifiable grounds of the controller outweigh your grounds. You will be informed in advance by us should the restriction be revoked.

Right to data portability: any data disclosure report, you've requested can also be sent to third parties.

You have the right to receive personal data concerning you that you have made available to us in a structured, conventional and machine-readable format, and you also have the right to transfer this data to another controller without being impeded by us to whom the personal data has been made available. The condition is that a) processing is based on consent pursuant to Article 6 (1) a) of the EU GDPR or Article 9 (2) a) of the EU GDPR or on a contract pursuant to Article 6 (1) b) of the EU GDPR, and b) the processing is conducted with the help of automated processes. When exercising your right to data portability you have the right to demand that the personal data is transferred directly from us to another controlling body, provided this is technically viable.

Right to withdraw consent: You can withdraw any consent you have given to data processing at any time.

If processing is subject to your consent you have the right to withdraw this consent at any time. This shall not affect the lawfulness of any processing that took place with your consent up until its withdrawal.

Right to lodge a complaint: You have the option of submitting an official complaint to the supervisory authority responsible for our company.

You have the right to lodge a complaint with the supervisory authority responsible for our company. That authority is:
